

Sevey, Donahue & Talcott, L.L.P. - Oil And Gas Accidents

Oil and gas accidents are a specialized area of practice. Many times cases are unavailable due to the lack of a third party. These accidents normally occur at work sites where employer involvement somehow caused the injury. If the only cause of the accident is due to employer or co-employee negligence than the sole remedy is workers compensation.

Sometimes a third party (someone or some other entity not associated with your employer) was negligent. This would also include the possibility of a defective product. A defective product, built by one other than your employer could be the source of a third party claim. If a third party was negligent in causing your injury a case would exist.

We represent an individual who was injured when a third party company employee was negligent and caused our client significant injury. You may have a significant case outside the workers compensation arena; however an evaluation would be needed to confirm. If you believe you were injured by someone, some product or some company not your employer please contact us at 916-788-7100 for a free evaluation. We have access to experts in this area and are willing to help.
